Finding "lost" tasks on Doddle

Doddle seems to only allow you to look at a task once. After that it hides it away from your menu of homework tasks.
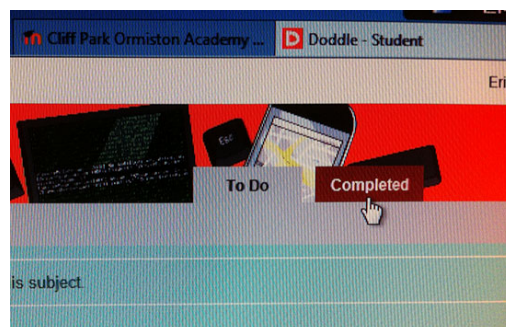

This is fine for basic tasks that you only need to look at once, but no good for extended learning tasks which you might need to come back to time and time again.

Fortunately there is a solution:

1. On the Doddle homepage click the subject (ICT & Computing for example)

2. On the next page there is a brown Completed tab in the top right of the screen. Click it.

3. This will show any "completed" tasks for you
    This should allow you to find extended learning tasks and get back to them whenever you need to.

> I don't know what will happen when a task "expires" just yet. I guess you won't be able to see it at all.

This task will end up there as well. I suggest you save a copy of it on your computer so that you know how to get back to "hidden" tasks!
